LENT

A Time for Some Serious Reflection

- ~ If you had to bet everything you have on whether there is a God or whether there isn't, which side would get your money and why?
- ~ When you look at your face in the mirror, what do you see in it that you most like and what do you see in it that you most deplore?
- ~ If you had only one last message to leave to the handful of people who are important to you, what would it be in twenty-five words or less?
- ~ Of all the things you have done in your life, which is the one you would most like to undo? Which is the one that makes you happiest to remember?
- ~ Is there any person in the world, or any cause, that if circumstances called for it, you would be willing to die for?
- ~ If this were the last day of your life, what would you do with it?"

FROM THE REVEREND JERED WEBER-JOHNSON

Dear Friends in Christ,

I remember sitting quietly on a mossy hummock watching my breath come out in small puffs, which were immediately lost in the gray mist laying low over the muskeg. I sat and listened to the drip of branches being relieved of the clinging dew. The world was hushed – no passing cars, no cell phones ringing, no nattering from passersby, and no buzz of any kind that would indicate civilization and people, yet I was a ten minute walk from my front porch.

I spent over half my life on the very edge of the wilderness and as a result I approach the notion of the same with a sense of great happiness as when I think of home. I have had so many wonderful and rich experiences in the “wild” in those places less touched by the aspirations and acquisitiveness of our imperfect humanity. For me the wild is a place of awesome silence and deep beauty a place that echoes with the presence of God. When I go to the wilderness I inevitably return with my soul unruffled, like a beach smoothed out by so many gentle waves washing ashore.

As such, the season of Lent, which picks up this theme of wilderness, is a season that I enter with great anticipation and hope. Lent is, after all, that time when we follow Jesus into the wild into the space set apart from the busy and bustling world into the quiet beauty of solitude for prayer and reflection and repentance. These things, most especially prayer, require some small amount of wilderness – the space set apart from noise and distraction.

The world doesn't pause for prayer or for thought – it moves with the steadiness of a machine, unthinking and unaware. And so we who are present enough to know we need connection and grace, we pause, we breathe, we find a tree or a hummock or a pew and we listen for the voice of God whispering forgiveness and love. In the wilderness we find Jesus, head bowed, pouring out his life before the Lord, asking for God's Spirit to bear him through the mission and ministry ahead. In the wilderness there is space enough to recognize our needs and our inadequacy in providing them. In the wilderness we know that we need God.

The service for Ash Wednesday invites us to the observance of a holy Lent. I lend my voice to that invitation. Don't let this season pass you by. Don't let the busyness sweep you swiftly past this moment of necessary prayer and repentance. Join us for Lent. This year we're focusing on creating space, in our discussion of hunger (for food, for God, for relationship, for healing) for relationship building and story-telling. There is more information in this Evangelist about our Lenten program, about opportunities on Sundays for discernment and on Thursdays for Compline. You may have your own disciplines and practices that create the necessary wilderness space in your life this Lent, but whatever they are, please do make Lent a part of your journey of faith this year and in the years to come.

See you around church.

Faithfully,

Lenten Discernment Group

Sundays in March, 11:30 – 1

Meditation Room

"The place God calls you to is where your deep gladness and the world's deep hunger meet."

– Fredrick Buechner

Do you ever wonder what's next in life? What you are really meant to be doing? How you can do the work you are already doing in a more meaningful way? Who you want to be and what you want to give back in this world?

Discernment is a word we usually use around a call to ordination, however, everyone can benefit from it. In the Episcopal Church we have the wonderful tradition of gathering in community with trusted friends and sharing our lives with one another. It is in community we believe that the Spirit speaks and helps give direction in our lives.

This Lent a small group will gather every Sunday in March after church and do just that: Listen and discern with one another where we're at and where God is calling us to be. This will be structured around Parker Palmer's wonderful (little) book titled Let Your Life Speak: Listening for the Voice of Vocation.

March 4: Who are you? – Chapters 1 & 2 Listening to Life & Now I Become Myself

March 11: What are the hardships that have made you, you? – Chapters 3 & 4 When the Way Closes & All the Way Down

March 18: Who are you longing to be? – Chapter 5 Leading from Within

RULES FOR A HAPPY LIFE – written by Rev. James G. Gilkey of Springfield, Massachusetts:

"There come to all of us unhappy days when we want nothing so much as to get away. Suppose you are one of thousands of restless, dissatisfied, unhappy people. Study yourself until you know your own symptoms of fatigue.

Most moods of restlessness are by-products of fatigue and are relatively unimportant. Remind yourself continually that you know only a little, a very little, about the alternative career of which you dream. You picture that alternative career as attractive, easy and inevitably successful and you tell yourself that if you were following it, you would be infinitely happier than you are today. But all of this, of course, is sheer guess work. We can know very little when we only look at its real problems and difficulties from the outside. Only as we make our way inside can we discover what its real problems and difficulties are.

Accept cheerfully and without protest the characteristic limitations of your own world. If you want to find happiness where you are, picture your career in high terms rather than low ones. Picture it in the highest terms you can find. Picture it as your way of helping a needy world. Picture it as God's will for your life."

NEW MEMBERS : Ian Dobson and Liz Connor

Ian Dobson and Liz Connor

How did you find St John's and/or Why did you choose St. John's?

We come from different faith traditions - Ian was raised Lutheran (his father is a pastor) and Liz was raised Roman Catholic. Although we were married in a Catholic church, we had been worshiping separately for the past several years. Neither of us was especially drawn to the other's faith, but we wanted to find a place where we could come together. We had friends and family who had been in similar situations and several of them felt that the Episcopal Church was the right "middle ground". So we found a few Episcopal churches in Saint Paul that looked like places we would both be comfortable, and the first one we attended was St. John's. After the first Sunday worship service, we knew we had found the right place. We immediately felt very welcome at St. John's.

What are your passions/interests?

We're fortunate in that we can enjoy many of our interests together like traveling, skiing, scuba diving, and cycling. Others, like Oregon Ducks football, is more of Ian's thing!

Tell us a little about your personal histories.

Ian grew up in Salem, Oregon and moved to Minnesota to attend Concordia College in Moorhead. He studied abroad in Jena, Germany during his junior year (we met when Ian came back to Concordia the following fall). Ian graduated in 2003 and began law school at St. Thomas University. He has been practicing law since 2006 and is currently an Assistant Attorney General for Minnesota.

Liz is originally from Fargo, North Dakota and graduated in 2005 from Concordia College. After working as a political campaign staffer for 5 years, she enrolled at the Humphrey School at the University of Minnesota and will graduate this May with a Master's in Public Policy.

In 2009, we bought our first home and now live in the Como Park neighborhood of Saint Paul where we live with our 2 dogs, Johan and Chloe.

We are extremely excited to be adding a new addition to our family in April - Liz is due with our first baby! We know she or he is going to be spoiled since this will be the first grandchild on both sides of the family, and the first great-grandchild on Liz's side. We and our families can't wait to meet the little one!

A warm welcome to you, Ian and Liz! Join us in welcoming these wonderful neighbors and new members. We're so glad you're here!

Requiem for a Tsunami

On Sunday, March 11, the parish choir will sing a deeply poignant anthem that was written after the horrific tsunami in 2004 that affected many Asian nations. Titled Requiem, by Texas-based folk musician Eliza Gilkyson, the text includes the following line:

*"All our homes are gone,
our loved ones taken,
taken by the sea."*

When the choir was first introduced to the piece at a recent Wednesday rehearsal, some singers were brought to tears.

The piece is scheduled for March 11 because that is the first anniversary of the magnitude 9.0 earthquake that triggered last year's tsunami in Japan, killing nearly 16,000 people. It was the most powerful earthquake known to have hit Japan.

The Requiem can be heard on YouTube and was also recorded by the National Lutheran Choir.

Just Arrived New Addition to St. John's Library

The Saint John's Bible is the first handwritten and illuminated Bible commissioned since the printing press was invented more than 500 years ago. It contains more than 160 stunning illuminations in seven distinct books: Pentateuch, Historical Books, Psalms, Wisdom Books, Prophets, Gospels and Acts, and Letters and Revelation.

Begun more than ten years ago and completed in 2011, the Bible will be exhibited in the manuscript library on the St. John's University campus in Collegeville, Minnesota. The project, sponsored by St. John's Abbey and St. John's University, is a collaboration of artist-calligraphers, illuminators, scholars, and the monks of the Abbey. It employs ancient techniques to create a contemporary masterpiece intended to put us in communication with the Infinite.

The seventh and final volume – Revelation -- has just been printed and issued. Parishioner Helen Boyer is exhibiting her copies of all seven volumes of The Saint John's Bible in the Library of St. John the Evangelist's Church – for review and contemplation by St. John's parishioners. Also on exhibit [on top of the book shelves in the library] is a series of art glass 'illuminated bible books' created by Helen Boyer, inspired by the St. John's Bible project.

More information about The Saint John's Bible is available at www.saintjohnsbible.org

NEW MEMBERS : Catherine St. Hill and Marc Weber Niah and Zoe

How did you find St John's?

We found the church by looking at the web sites of churches close to our house and ideally within walking distance. Marc was raised Catholic and I was raised Methodist and we wanted a denomination that would appeal to both of us. We chose St. John's because of the rich community atmosphere and the alignment with our values and beliefs.

What are your passions/interests?

We both enjoy travel tremendously and have started to visit places with our children, Niah and Zoe. We also like to cook together, outdoor activities, getting together with friends, music, concerts, and arts and cultural activities in general.

What is your history...where are you from ?

Catherine is from Barbados and Marc is from Wisconsin. Our two children were born in Minnesota. We have both lived in different parts of the U.S. before settling in Minnesota. Our life experiences were similar even though we were raised in very different cultures.

... and you built me a house.

Volunteers across Minnesota will work with ECS' EpiscoBuilders to build two houses – one in Brooklyn Park and the other in White Earth. This ambitious goal will require many individuals to donate their time, talents, and to help raise the funds it takes – around $125,000.

Youth and adult volunteers from St. John the Evangelist will work with ECS' EpiscoBuilders to build a house in White Earth, MN June 16 – June 23, 2012. If you would like to participate in this mission experience please join us for an informational meeting on Sunday, March 4 at 9am in the Meditation Room, and fill out the attached form and return to Jean Hansen by Sunday, March 11th.

The youth are fundraising $5,000 to donate to EpiscoBuilders for the house. Please check out our "Wall O' Money" fundraiser in the Undercroft and make a donation.

Update on the Parish History

The parish history that is being written by staff musician Jim Frazier has taken a major leap toward its completion. The first draft of the narrative, concerning all the rectors and the people of the parish from 1881 through 2011, was completed on December 31, coming to 270 pages.

Copies of the document were then distributed to the members of the Advisory Committee and to two additional readers who examined the text in great detail. Jim then incorporated the corrections into a revised edition and on January 23 he sent that document to the publisher Patricia McDonald of Afton Historical Society Press. Work has begun on layout, design and the incorporation of photos, and we are confident that the press will produce an elegant and artistic document.

Several other sections of the book are still to be finished, namely, the preface, the foreword, a glossary of terms, the bibliography, the memorials and the windows, and a chapter on the parish architecture.

For further information, please feel free to contact Jim Frazier, or the members of the Advisory Committee: Alden Drew, Jim Johnson, Dusty Mairs, Patricia McDonald, Betty Myers or Fred Myers.

Godly Play

We are in the season of Lent which will soon include the season of spring. In Godly Play we talk about Lent as the time we need to get ready to approach the church's biggest Mystery...Easter, a celebration of resurrection and new growth in ourselves and the world around us.

Godly Play is growing, too. The parents of children who will be in 6th and 7th grade (our current 5th and 6th graders) have been meeting to learn about the Journey To Adulthood (J2A) Program.

Godly Play will adapt the two year J2A cycle by re-organizing our story groups. It is likely that we will have three groups with a name, perhaps suggested by kids, rather than our current grade-based groups. Godly Play will continue to ensure that our children are grounded in the stories of our tradition and have a lively connection to Mystery as they enter their J2A phase.

Emma Grundhauser—Youth Delegate

It should come as no surprise to us that Emma Grundhauser is making a positive impression on the wider Episcopal Church – she’s been making a positive impression here all her life. After serving the parish during the transition as a member of the Search Committee, and being very involved in the life of this community in youth group, on mission projects and in the youth choir, Emma was able to attend the 2011 Episcopal Youth Event (EYE) here in St. Paul. At EYE Emma joined with over a thousand different youth from around the Episcopal Church and learned and experienced how her faith, her life, and her involvement were vital to the church and to the mission of God. Emma heard about the mission of the church and how she could get more involved. Presenters explained about how the church as a social and political entity functioned and organized itself to pursue its mission in the world. As someone who has long been interested in matters of governance and politics Emma perked up when she heard about the official youth presence to the Episcopal Church’s triennial General Convention. That official youth presence lends voice and a critical youth perspective to all legislation put before the Episcopal Church’s largest and most important decision-making body.

This year Emma applied along with over 100 other candidates and we are delighted to announce that along with one other individual, she will be representing not only this parish and this diocese but the entire province at the 2012 General Convention of the Episcopal Church. There along with representatives from the other 9 provinces of this part of the Anglican Communion she will be present for the introduction of and discussion of all legislation, and will be given access and a voice at all open standing committee meetings in the 10+ day session in Indianapolis. Emma is mindful that this is a chance for her opinion and views to be heard.

“I get to make a difference” she says. But, Emma is equally conscious of the reality that this will be a time not only to be heard, but to listen and learn. “It’s all part of being an informed member in the church.” To that end Emma will be interested to watch and see how the church moves particularly on the development of liturgies blessing same-sex unions and other issues of peace and justice. Emma says she will want to pay attention to how the budget is developed with an eye toward the mission of the church. You can listen and learn too. During the convention in early July Emma will be keeping us informed of developments in our political life as a church and will be sharing her observations and experiences probably in an email or blog format. Stay tuned.

St. John's Choir at Carnegie Hall in February, 2013

St. John's Adult Choir has been invited by Distinguished Concerts International New York to perform the Bluegrass Mass of St. Paul composer Carol Barnett at Carnegie Hall on Presidents' Day in 2013.

The choir performed the work with the bluegrass band Monroe Crossing at Evensong on All Saints Day at St. John's last November. The band is scheduled to play for the performance at Carnegie Hall.

St. John's singers will be part of a chorus of about 180 voices who will perform under the direction of conductor Nancy Menk, a member of the choral faculty at St. Mary's College in Notre Dame, Indiana, where she conducts the Women's and Collegiate Choirs and teaches courses in conducting techniques.

St. John's singers will arrive in New York on Friday, February 15. On Saturday, Sunday and Monday they will have half-day rehearsals in the hall and will be free the rest of the time to visit the sights of New York City. The performance at Carnegie Hall will take place on Monday evening, February 18.

Carnegie Hall was built by philanthropist Andrew Carnegie in 1891 and is one of the most prestigious venues in the world for both classical music and popular music. It presents about 250 performances every season.

The management of Monroe Crossing recommended St. John's Choir to the agency producing the concert in acknowledgment of the successful performance here in November. The parish congratulates the members of the choir upon the distinction shown them and for the honor and prestige that the event brings to St. John's.
