Pentecost blessings – Spirit and mission

Dear Friends,

The rush of wind, the sounds of children's voices, the improvised riff on a guitar or piano, laughter, the knot in your stomach – as many ways as we can imagine, and you can be sure that the Spirit moves in each of these and more. The Spirit, God's holy and life-giving Spirit is moving out in the world and here in our midst.

At Pentecost we tell the story of how God's Spirit crashed into a crowd of people, and how those people suddenly filled with power and passion moved out to create this new community called church. As Christians we profess a belief in this Spirit and affirm that by water and the same a peculiar people has been and is being formed, and that it is through them (through us!) that God's unique and reconciling mission is somehow accomplished in the world.

As modern Christians we don't often think of ourselves as being a part of a people with a divine mission (cue cheesy Blues Brothers line). Most of the time we like to think we are individuals who happen to belong to a pretty building and a friendly group of people. We like to think we have decent programs, and beautiful music, and pastoral care should we ever need it. But, a mission, really?

Pentecost is the perfect time of the year to be thinking about our mission. Pentecost is the moment when the church begins, the moment when we realize we've been made into a body, into hands and feet for Christ, and sent into the world rejoicing in the power of the Spirit. Pentecost is a big blooming, holy reminder that we've got some work to do. And, what is that work – what exactly is our mission? The Book of Common Prayer says it is nothing short of reconciliation, with God and each other (BCP 855). We pursue that mission as we serve others, as we build new relationships and heal old ones – we pursue that mission every time we reach beyond ourselves in love to those most in need. And, we are engaging that mission, God's mission, through St. John's each and every day. Our new farmer's market is moving us into deeper relationship with our brothers and sisters at the predominantly Hmong parish Holy Apostles and is opening our "doors" to our neighbors as we find yet another way serve this community. Our relationship with Kayoro Village, Uganda continues to flourish and develop. New work is happening in the area of ministry discernment as we seek to help St. John's develop into a training ground and incubator for new ministers for God's mission. After much discussion and prayer, at our last vestry meeting the vestry voted unanimously to affirm that at St. John's we will bless the union of any couple who belong to our community, gay or straight. These are exciting times.

God's Spirit is moving, and we are running as fast as we can to keep up, following where it leads us into the mission of God. As summer begins, I would invite you to spend some time to think and prayerfully discern where you are already knowingly or unknowingly at work in the mission of God, and where you might get even more involved – either at St. John's, in your work place, or in your family. And, wherever you are this summer, I hope you will sense the power of God's Spirit alive and at work in your life.

Faithfully,

Jared +

Two are Better than One

By Longkee Vang
Assistant Youth Director

Last summer, St. John the Evangelist hosted the 2nd National Southeast Asian Convocation in August. With members representing Holy Apostles and St. John's in attendance, Hmong, White, Cambodian, and Vietnamese congregations came together and attempted to tackle some of the issues of the church.

One of the questions posted to the attendees was "How do we get young people involved in the church?" The answer was Young Episcopalians at their Horizons Camp, or YE@H Camp. YE@H Camp, with the support of Episcopal Asiamerica Ministries (EAM), Youth Ministries, and Young Adult Ministries of the Episcopal Church, is an opportunity for youth grades 9-12 from throughout the EAM Network to come together and experience something they may seldom get the chance to experience: A chance for fellowship and to learn more about their lives in two unique worlds—the world of an Episcopalian and the world of their own cultural background. By bringing together a group of their own peers, they get to experience first-hand that they are not alone in their unique lives.

I have been tasked with coordinating and designing camp this summer, and I am thrilled to extend an invitation to the congregation and youth of St. John's. For two years now, the youth groups of Holy Apostles and St. John's have been working to further our partnership in God's mission. I have been to each coast and many places in between within the past two years, and our youth program is something that I always talk about. Clergy and lay leaders always remark about how unique our relationship is, and how we are truly representative of the future of our church and world. I believe that YE@H Camp can be another opportunity to show the growth of our youth program.

This summer, campers from across the United States will descend upon St. John's before they embark on their journey to Camp Omega in Waterville, MN. They will arrive Tuesday, August 7th and begin the process of fellowship. They head back home on Sunday, August 12th, with the hope that they experience what our youth have these past two years: that although we come from many backgrounds, cities, and walks of life, we all have something in common with one another. Being in communion and loved by one another is something we all hope for in our lives. Working together and seeing the fruit of the work is something that fuels us towards our goals.

I ask for your prayers for those planning, attending, and leading camp this summer. I also ask for prayers for the families and communities from where all the campers come, and I hope to be able to have some St. John's campers as well. As Ecclesiastes 4:9 states, "Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their toil." My hope is that YE@H Camp can be another example of the fruit brought on by partnership of Holy Apostles and St. Johns.

Whether you consider yourself a "senior," an "elder," or simply wiser than most, join the staff and clergy for lunch on June 13 at noon in the Fireside Room. Come for Noonday Prayer at 11:30 beforehand, if you wish. You will be served lunch and enjoy good company and conversation. Please respond to the office by June 11 and let us know if you need a ride.

Reese Berry at her first Twins game

Meet New Members Brett, Jessica and Reese Berry

By Jessica Berry

Why did you choose St. John's?

I grew up going to TEC (Teens Encounter Christ) and other DYE's (Diocesan Youth Events) at St. John's, and my grandmother Lyn was an Episcopal deacon for many years, so SJE has always been on my radar. Also, our next door neighbors Jennifer and Rex Haberman encouraged us to check out SJE.

We like the fact that there is an active young adult life and lots of families here, as well as a strong sense of community and serving others. We like the music at SJE! We also have very much enjoyed the sermons each Sunday. This was an important part of our decision in choosing a church. We wanted to feel enlightened and inspired by the sermons and feel that that is a common occurrence at SJE.

What are your passions/interests?

Both Brett and I love baseball! Brett played varsity all four years at St. Olaf and now plays on the Northfield Knights town ball league. We love to cook and grill and drink wine outside on beautiful MN summer nights, spend time with friends and family, and travel. Between the two of us, we've traveled much of the world! More recently though, our interests have turned to diapers and cute baby girl clothes.

What is your history?

Brett grew up in Northfield, MN and I grew up in the Twin Cities and then moved to the mountains of east Tennessee. We both attended St. Olaf College, and now own a home in St Paul. Brett works for Wells Fargo and has just graduated from the St. Thomas MBA program. I work as a birth and postpartum Doula, as well as waitress a few nights a week at the Liffey Irish Pub.

We are so excited to be joining the SJE community! Thank you for welcoming us so warmly and for the loaves of bread we've gotten - they've been a welcome gift and have coincided nicely with the arrival of our new baby Reese.

Project Kathleen

It's a picnic! Pot luck that is, for Project Kathleen families, mentors, and committee members -- past, present, and future.

Others interested in the work of PK are welcome to "party-cipate". The place is Casey Lake Park in Maplewood, north of Highway 36 between White Bear Avenue and McKnight Road).

The time is Sunday, June 10-noonish. In case of rain, choose our church.

Thank You

Thanks to the generosity of the people of St. John's, the puppet sale raised $900.00 for the music fund and a lot of puppets found a new home. I appreciate all the help with the project from the staff and from the choir.

~ Marcelyn Smale

And thank you, Marcelyn, for your generosity, your enthusiasm for the fun, furry creatures, and for your commitment to St. John's.

Produce for Parishioners...and the Neighborhood

By Sarah Goodall

Searching for that perfectly plump heirloom tomato, crisp kohlrabi, or colorful chard to brighten up any summertime dish? Look no further! Beginning Sunday, June 17th, St. John's will host the inaugural year of its very own farmer's market.

This year we are partnering with our companion parish, Holy Apostles, to bring fresh, local, in-season produce at a fair price to the Summit Hill Neighborhood. A rotating selection of exciting and unique fruits and vegetables will be available throughout the summer months alongside some traditional household favorites. Stop on by the south end of the parking lot every Sunday from 9am to noon and Wednesday from 3-6pm, to bring home some of summer's bounty while supporting an excellent cause.

All proceeds directly benefit Holy Apostle farm families. Last year, families such as those selling at the market grew 23,000 pounds of fresh produce for local food shelves through the Fields to Families program. Many of these families currently grow on rented land and hope to one day have fields of their own. Farmers markets, such as the first ever St. John's market, provide extra income that will help hardworking farmers get one step closer to reaching their goals. This summer, skip the supermarket, spread the word, and support local agriculture, helping the entire St. John's community gain a greater presence in the neighborhood. Shop St. John's Market!

A note on parking: Sunday parking in the lot will be reserved for parishioners. Drive-up customers will be directed to on-street parking.

Ready, Set, Build!

Can't Make it to Episcobuild in June? You Can Join Us in July for This Year's Faith Builders Twin Cities Habitat For Humanity Project

St. John's is a member of Faith Builders, an interfaith coalition of St. Paul churches that was organized in the fall of 2002 to participate in the Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity Summer Workcamp program. Committed to putting their faith into action, the members of Faith Builders work to meet the need for affordable housing in St. Paul.

This year, the 2012 Workcamp will be the weeks of July 9 – July 20 (Monday through Friday each week). Construction takes place from 8:30 to 4:00 each day. We'll be working rehabbing a house on St. Paul's East Side at 1021 Case Avenue, near the site we worked on two years ago. This is an important addition to the stock of affordable housing for those with limited means as well as a boost for that neighborhood. This will be the 10th Twin Cities Habitat for Humanity project Faith Builders and St. John's volunteers have participated in!

There is still room for you to join us working in general construction or on the food crew. Each day there is a work crew of 12-14 volunteers, and 3-4 volunteers preparing and serving snacks and lunch. All skill levels are welcome – you are provided with tools and friendly instructions, if you need them. You work with like-minded folk, people of faith from other local congregations, and you'll be addressing the need for affordable housing in a concrete way. For information on St. John's role in Faith Builders and to volunteer, contact Don Postema, 651-483-3062, postema@comcast.net. You can sign up by phone or e-mail. Bring a friend or family member!

When you see the smiles on the faces of the new owners of the house at the dedication open house next fall, you'll know you shared in the work of faith building!

Dick Lyman's Father Honored

"Minnesota's latest addition to the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial wasn't a law enforcement officer at all, but a Minneapolis executive who ran a factory and taught Sunday school."

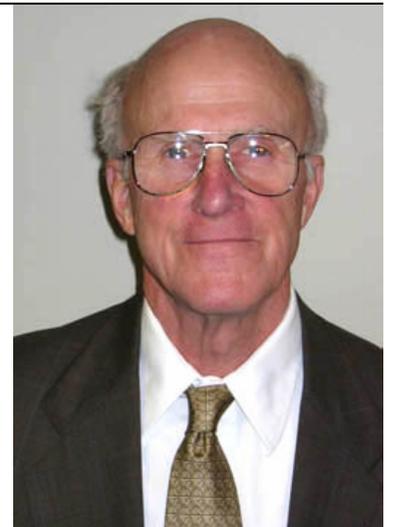

So begins the article in the May 13 issue of the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

C. Arthur Lyman, father of parishioner Dick Lyman, answered the call from police to help control a union trucker's strike in 1934. Deputized by the police, he was clubbed by strikers in the Minneapolis Warehouse District and died at age 44.

C. Arthur Lyman was an active member of St. Mark's Cathedral. "What did him in probably was his faith in his own abilities and in his God that gave him the courage to not run," said Dick, who was an infant when his father was killed. "There are people like that and he was one of them."

Dick Lyman notes that his own favorite author is John Steinbeck, who wrote about workers and unions and strikes, especially in his award-winning novel, The Grapes of Wrath. Dick says, "It was a very ugly time and I can sympathize with people who didn't have much in those days and were looking to improve themselves."

The Star Tribune is not allowing us to reprint the whole article but you can read it at Minneapolis Star Tribune C Arthur Lyman. Call the church office if you cannot access a copy.

Good by and hello

June is a month of transition in the office at St. John's. As announced on Pentecost Sunday, in the middle of the month, Sherry Christiansen will be leaving us and Sarah Dull will be joining us.

Sherry Christiansen has been with us since November in the position of Interim Office Administrator. She has been a gracious and cheerful presence and, as the staff will testify, a tireless worker (even bringing her mom in to help the Evangelist out!). The mother of three children and the grandmother of three, Sherry will be returning to school to complete her business management degree.

Sherry Christiansen One of Sherry's most moving memories of her time with us has been being the frontline person when people come into the office asking for help. "It kind of reminds you what's important," she observes. She has enjoyed showing people around who come in and want to see the church since it's such a beautiful space.

Thank you, Sherry, for all you have done for us at St. John's. We will miss you. Sherry's last day is June 15th.

After a several month process, we are delighted to introduce and welcome our new permanent full-time Office Administrator. Sarah Dull comes to us with both a background in parish administration and the for-profit sector working most recently for Christopher and Banks, where she managed both clients and a staff as a designer/buyer/seller with a substantial portfolio and at Mt. Olivet Lutheran Church, Minneapolis, where she oversaw administrative work for a very large corporate-sized parish.

We are pleased to have Sarah's experience and expertise on this already-talented team. Sarah's first day is June 11th.

Please stop by and say good-by to Sherry and hello to Sarah.

Vestry Musings

By Don Postema

Your Vestry met on Monday evening, May 21, and heard several reports in addition to taking action on important items. The reports-on-parade began with an update from the Building Committee regarding an appropriate way to memorialize Dorothy Hand's historic, generous gift to St. John's. The Vestry commended the initiative and will hear the final proposal at a meeting in the near future.

Second in line was a report on the St. John's Farmers' Market beginning on June 13, taking place on Wednesday afternoons from 3-6pm and Sunday mornings from 9-noon throughout the summer. This new initiative is a "threefer." (1) It builds on our relationship with Holy Apostles Church, our companion parish, by contributing to their Fields to Families program, a proven way of getting fresh produce from small farmers to food shelves in the East Metro area. (2) It will be another outlet for some of the Hmong farmers from Holy Apostles to bring their produce to market. (3) It will be an outreach to the neighborhood around St. John's demonstrating our commitment to locally-sourced food and to serving our community. The SJ Farmers' Market will only require 4-5 parking spaces on the Summit Avenue end of our parking lot for a limited number of vendors. Parishioners will still have plenty of room to park, and will be able to take fresh veggies home from church – food for body and spirit all summer!

Next up was a report on the Community Dinners organized by the Fellowship Commission on Saturday evening, May 12. 46 parishioners (10 new members!) potlucked at 7 homes enjoying good food and drink, sparkling conversations, and the opportunity to learn more about their lives and experiences at St. John's. The consensus was that this should become a more regular part of our congregational life (it would also cut down on individual menu planning!).

It was also reported that a liturgy working group is being formed to consider ways of "sustaining our traditional forms of worship while creating new opportunities for individual and community spiritual development," one of the goals identified in our recent Discovery and Search process. Interested persons should contact our rector, Rev. Jered Weber-Johnson, for more information.

In case anyone was worried that all this activity might prompt a cardiac arrest, it was reported that we are installing an external emergency defibrillator (fondly named an AED) at St. John's. One of our members, Jeff Olson, MD, will offer training sessions for the use of this shocking device.

Though their stamina for reports is obviously remarkable, the Vestry also took action on two significant items. First, James Johnson, our former Treasurer and long-time St. John's member, was, upon recommendation of the Finance Committee, officially named our Planned Gift Chair. Recently retired (though you can't tell it by looking at his schedule!), Jim will bring his expertise in this area to bear on our goal of broadening our stewardship opportunities, specifically in the area of bequests and planned giving. You might want to congratulate Jim by planning a gift to St. John's.

The highlight of our meeting was unanimous adoption of our revised policy on "The Celebration and Blessing of a Marriage/Covenant Union at St. John's." The revisions have been well-discussed in many contexts and are effectively a confirmation of our current practices. The policy affirms the sacramental nature of this special relationship which may take the form of either a marriage or a covenant union. It welcomes those with membership or family connections to St. John's to enter this relationship seriously and faithfully. St. John's will celebrate the marriage or covenant union of a man and a woman as well as the covenant union between two men or two women, invoking God's blessing on the couple and strengthening each of them as individuals and as a family. The full policy, after minor editing, will be available from the Church Office.

Guided meditation and prayer bookended the meeting, keeping the Vestry mindful of their calling and dependence on God and others in their work. As always, Vestry members are available for further discussion of any of the matters we considered, welcoming your comments and concerns.

From the parish history: St. John's Moves Three Houses

By Jim Frazier

After World War II, during which several parish men died in defense of the country, there was a lot of discussion as to the best way to memorialize those who lost their lives in the conflict and to honor those (including one woman) fortunate enough to return home. Some proposed that a small stained glass window be installed in the narthex of the church, while others considered that plan wholly inadequate in view of the fact that the men who died during the First World War, and those who returned, were memorialized by the installation of a prominent and dazzling window above the main altar of the church—one of St. John's greatest artistic treasures—which required the raising of the chancel ceiling and the design and installation of new carved ceiling beams.

It was a major proposal by the then rector, the Rev. Edward M. Cross, and that project, which cost an enormous sum of money, paid due honor to the servicemen. The much smaller window was eventually installed in the narthex, satisfying some but not all parishioners.

At the same time the parish was in need of a new parish house, the previous building at the corner of Portland and Dale (still extant) having been abandoned and sold some years earlier. All parish activities and offices had returned to the original building on Kent St., a cramped arrangement that proved problematic from the start. In an effort to appease those who thought the narthex window inadequate, the parish decided to construct a new parish house adjoining the existing Kent St. buildings and to call it the Memorial Parish House, in a worthy gesture to its noble servicemen and women.

But three houses were in the way. They stood on Kent St., north of the Guild House (as the original church was called) up to the corner of Holly. Instead of simply razing the houses, the parish moved them to other locations in the city. One of them was moved to 500 Holly Ave., at the end of the block where, as coincidence would have it, parishioners Becky Garthofner and Jerry Woelfel live today.

Parishioner Bill Plummer happened to have a camera with him when the houses were being lifted onto flatbed trucks and hauled away, and he has graciously offered the adjacent photos to be included in the new parish history, which will be completed in the fall and titled For All the Saints: A History of St. John the Evangelist Church.

The book is currently at the publisher, the Afton Historical Society Press, where parishioner Patricia McDonald oversees the transformation of the narrative into a beautiful artifact, a keepsake for all who have ever called St. John's home, an eye-catching coffee-table book that will engage readers for generations to come. The timing couldn't be better for Christmas gift-giving. Stay tuned.
